

Love without limits?

How far is unreachable? How can we escape from an unpleasant task?

In times of globalization and networking this becomes more and more difficult. Even in Jonah's time it was impossible when the one who gives you a task is such a universal one.

What if a prophet does not believe in the prophecy? Could one resist and yet be loved? Beyond the classic ideal, love has so many faces and does not always take the straight path – where are its limits? Are there limits? On 2 evenings we invite you on a journey with Jonah. We are going to look into it and reflect with bibliodramatic and creative methods.

We will work with the book of Jonah. You will get detailed information shortly before the workshop.

The workshop includes two meetings via Zoom, and perhaps a voluntary input for the time between the two meetings.

Date

Monday 16. January, 18.00-20:15 CET
+ Monday 23. January, 18.00-20:15 CET

Information about workshop-leaders

Eva Danneholm, Stockholm, Sweden. Bibliodramaleader, pastor and folkhighschool-teacher.

Eva Z.Schmitt, Berlin-Germany. Bibliodramaleader (GfB). Diploma in psychology, master in Public Health, systemic child therapy and coaching, visual artist.

Sign-in to this workshop via Mail to madita@gmx.net

Language/-s we will work in this workshop:

Basic English

Extra information

You do not need to know anything about the Bible or about Bibliodrama, just bring yourself, be curious and willing to take part in our "experiment".